Brian McGovern is a member of Archer's Business Counseling Group specializing in corporate law, providing representation to both for-profit and non-profit entities and their principals in a variety of matters. Brian's practice includes entity formation and dissolution, asset and stock transactions, mergers and acquisitions, restructurings, joint ventures, corporate governance, financing, non-profit and charitable trust tax exemption, licensing, and public contracting.

Brian provides advice to clients in both traditional and emerging industries. He is an active member of Archer's multidisciplinary Cannabis Group, where he lends his corporate and regulatory experience to advise businesses of all sizes on the various rules and regulations involved in this new, and constantly evolving industry. In the short time that this industry has existed, Brian has worked with a wide variety of clients, including medical cannabis entities, in successfully obtaining state licenses, CBD retailers, and cannabis and hemp laboratory testing operations.

Brian received his J.D. from Rutgers School of Law – Camden, where he was a Fellow at the Eagleton Institute of Politics and Government. Brian has been recognized as an "Awesome Attorney" for Corporate Law by South Jersey Magazine.
