Tyler J. Wicks is an associate in the Business Litigation Group. Tyler is experienced in contract and employment disputes before state and federal courts in New York and New Jersey.

Prior to relocating to New Jersey, Tyler represented a variety of individuals and institutions in contract, real property, and probate litigation in Northern California.

Tyler has broad business experience, which together with his extensive legal education and diverse practice experience, afford him both unusual insights into commercial matters and confidence in the development and argument of creative solutions.

Tyler earned his first J.D. from Monterey College of Law in California, where he was a Teaching Fellow, Heisler Moot Court finalist, and graduated first in his class. Tyler was awarded his second J.D. from Seton Hall University School of Law.

During his time at Seton Hall, Tyler was an Associate Editor for the Seton Hall Law Review, and participated in clinical programs, appearing before the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, and the Superior Court of New Jersey.

Tyler is originally from the Gold Coast, Australia, where he worked as an accountant prior to his relocation to the United States.
