

Justice Lee Solomon (Ret.) Named 2025 New Jersey State Bar Foundation Medal of Honor Recipient

Press Releases

05.12.2025

Archer is pleased to announce that Justice Lee A. Solomon (Ret.) has been named as one of the New Jersey State Bar Foundation (NJSBF) Medal of Honor recipients for 2025. The award will be presented on September 17th at the NJSBF's Annual Awards Dinner at Park Chateau, East Brunswick.

The Medal of Honor is the New Jersey State Bar Foundation's highest honor and is awarded annually to two recipients who have made significant contributions to the advancement of the justice system or the betterment of the legal profession in New Jersey, and who have attained professional excellence in the law or service to the profession and the community.

On being chosen for this honor, Justice Solomon said, "It is a profound honor to be recognized by the New Jersey State Bar Foundation with the Medal of Honor. Throughout my career, I have been privileged to serve alongside countless dedicated professionals who share a common commitment to justice, fairness, and the rule of law. This award is a reflection of the collaborative spirit of the many individuals who strive every day to improve our legal system and our communities. The law, at its best, is a force for positive change. I accept this award with gratitude and a deep sense of responsibility to continue working towards the betterment of both our profession and the people we serve."

Justice Solomon is Of Counsel in the firm's Business Litigation Group. He brings to Archer a decade of service on the New Jersey Supreme Court. Justice Solomon came to the Supreme Court having served in all three branches of government, as a member of the State Assembly, a cabinet member serving as president of the Board of Public Utilities, and the judiciary.

Justice Solomon has had a long and distinguished legal career. He is known for possessing a deep understanding of the issues facing the people, businesses, and official agencies of the State, and has a reputation for always treating those who came before him with great respect and humility. His judicial body of work spans the wide spectrum of the law, including the areas of environmental law, civil litigation, equity, family law, and criminal law.

Justice Solomon entered the legal field as a trial attorney working in Philadelphia, and later launched his own solo practice in New Jersey. Following his nomination by Gov. Chris Christie and confirmation by the Senate, Justice Solomon was sworn in as an associate justice on June 19, 2014. His term of service on the court concluded on August 17, 2024.
