

Archer Names Four New Partners

Press Releases

08.07.2025

Voorhees, NJ - Archer proudly announces the elevation of four attorneys to partner. This group reflects the strength and depth of Archer's legal talent across a range of practice areas and offices.

"We're proud to welcome this outstanding group of attorneys to the Archer partnership," said Archer Chair Deborah Hays. "They bring not only strong legal skill but also a deep dedication to client service. Each has made meaningful contributions to our firm's growth, and I congratulate them on this well-deserved achievement."

The newly named partners are:

Vinita Banthia. Known for her work in complex environmental litigation, products liability, and toxic tort matters, Vinita represents clients in multi-faceted environmental disputes that often involve historical site contamination, multiple parties, and complex legal issues such as corporate successorship, liability allocation, and natural resource damages. She joined Archer in 2019.

Harrison Breakstone. Harrison advises debtors, creditors, and related parties on issues related to corporate restructuring and bankruptcy, including debtors' and creditors' rights, bankruptcy litigation, and general commercial litigation. He has been with the firm since 2018.

Jason Sena. Jason represents clients in government and regulatory affairs, litigation, land acquisition, redevelopment, public contracting, and campaign finance compliance. He also serves as counsel to municipalities, local authorities, and counties throughout New Jersey, and advises political candidates and parties on election law and campaign finance. He joined Archer in 2022.

Richard Wells. Richard focuses his practice on land use, zoning, environmental permitting, and regulatory compliance. He advises clients on all aspects of land development, including zoning and site plan approvals. Richard also handles real estate matters and advises clients in the cannabis industry. He has been with the firm since 2021.
