Archer is pleased to announce that Justin D. Csik has joined the firm as a partner in its Business Counseling Practice Group in Voorhees. With more than a decade of experience advising clients across a broad spectrum of corporate and commercial matters, Justin's addition supports Archer's continued strategic growth. His diverse background strengthens the firm's capabilities and adds depth to its bench in high-level corporate counseling and complex deal execution.

"Justin strengthens our ability to handle the most sophisticated corporate and transactional matters," said Deborah Hays, Chair of Archer and Head of the Business Counseling Practice. "His versatility across multiple practice areas adds real depth to our team and supports our clients' growth in a rapidly changing business environment."

Justin represents privately-held companies, public corporations, private investment funds, and nonprofit organizations in transactions ranging from business formation and governance to complex mergers and acquisitions. Justin also counsels clients on joint ventures, strategic investments, equity and debt financings, and corporate restructurings.

On joining Archer, Justin said, "I am excited to join Archer's talented Business Counseling Group. The firm provides a tremendous opportunity to expand my practice and work with a diverse client base, and I look forward to leveraging its full-service resources to deliver even greater value to clients."

In addition to his transactional work, Justin has extensive experience in franchise law. He represents franchisors in franchise system development and regulatory compliance, and he advises both franchisors and franchisees on mergers and acquisitions involving franchise businesses. Justin also counsels clients on trademark and copyright matters, as well as licensing agreements.

Justin earned his J.D. from Rutgers University School of Law and his B.A., magna cum laude, from Villanova University.
