Archer is proud to congratulate partner David F. Edelstein on being recognized as Volunteer UP Legal Clinic's 2026 Volunteer of the Year. David serves on the Advisory Board of Volunteer UP Legal Clinic and chairs Archer's Pro Bono Practice, where he has been instrumental in advancing access to justice for underserved communities.

David has partnered closely with Volunteer UP on numerous initiatives, including their annual Expungement Clinic. In January 2026, with the guidance and leadership of David and the volunteer attorneys he recruited, over 100 individuals filed for expungement, an important step toward removing barriers to employment, housing, and education.

As Chair of Archer's Pro Bono Practice, David works with several partner organizations to identify opportunities for firm attorneys to provide legal support to communities in need. Under his leadership, Archer offers an expansive range of pro bono services, including legal assistance to local, public-interest media outlets, annual expungement clinics, and representation of nonprofit organizations in real estate and land-use matters.

In addition to overseeing the firm's pro bono initiatives, David maintains his own active pro bono practice, with a focus on environmental justice matters. He is committed to ensuring that communities with environmental justice claims receive the representation they need.

In his environmental law practice, David represents Fortune 100 companies, multinational corporations, and smaller businesses at several of the country's largest Superfund sites.

We are proud of David's leadership, his dedication to pro bono service, and the lasting relationships he has fostered with our partner agencies and organizations.
