

Lisa Bothwell Joins Archer as Of Counsel in Corporate Practice

Press Releases

06.10.2026

Archer today announced that Lisa A. Bothwell has joined the firm's Corporate Practice Group as Of Counsel in its Princeton office. Lisa brings extensive experience advising businesses, entrepreneurs, and investors on mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance, private offerings, and day-to-day operational needs.

Lisa has led and supported dozens of buy-side and sell-side M&A transactions totaling over $200 million in aggregate value. She regularly helps clients navigate the full transaction lifecycle, including structuring, due diligence, negotiation of definitive agreements, and closing execution. Her experience spans a diverse range of industries, including manufacturing, technology, construction, healthcare, hospitality, tobacco, and the nonprofit sector.

"Lisa's combination of transactional experience and ongoing business counseling makes her a tremendous addition to our team," Deborah Hays, Chair of Archer's Corporate Practice Group, said. "Her work across M&A, governance, capital formation, and outside general counsel matters enhances our ability to help clients navigate both significant transactions and the day-to-day decisions that drive long-term success."

In addition to transactional work, Lisa serves as outside general counsel to closely held and family-owned businesses, advising executive teams on corporate strategy, commercial agreements, employment matters, compliance, and risk management.

"I am excited to join Archer and work alongside such a talented group of attorneys," said Lisa Bothwell. "Throughout my career, I have focused on helping business owners and management teams navigate critical decisions, from acquisitions and capital raises to governance and succession planning. Archer's collaborative platform and breadth of experience will allow me to continue delivering the practical, business-focused counsel clients value."

Lisa's practice also includes counseling on business separations, joint ventures, phantom interest plans, and business succession planning for closely held businesses. She advises nonprofit organizations and private foundations on governance and operational matters.

With Lisa's addition, Archer further strengthens its corporate and transactional capabilities, enhancing the firm's ability to help businesses pursue strategic growth, navigate change, and capitalize on new opportunities across the region and beyond. She will work closely with colleagues in the firm's corporate, tax, employment, and litigation groups to provide integrated counsel tailored to each client's strategic priorities.
