

Advanced Land Use and Zoning Disputes With Local Governments

Speaking Engagements & Seminars

08.04.2026

Presented by: Andrew T. Fede

Partner Andrew Fede will present two sessions at the National Business Institute's full-day program, "Advanced Land Use and Zoning Disputes With Local Governments." The program examines today's increasingly complex land use and zoning landscape. Topics include expert insights on digital sign and billboard regulation, land use challenges created by recent technologies, legislative updates and case law developments, variances, litigation hurdles under zoning ordinances, eminent domain practice tips, and strategies for drafting development agreements.

Andy will present When Zoning Ordinances Are Violated – Overcoming Key Hurdles, examining the legal and practical challenges involved in enforcing zoning regulations. His presentation will address dimensional, setback, and height ordinance violations, environmental and sustainability considerations, litigation obstacles, evidentiary challenges, ordinance interpretation, and the use of injunctive relief to secure compliance.

Andy will also present Digital Sign and Billboard Regulation: Insights From Top Lawyers, discussing the evolving regulatory framework governing digital signage and billboards, including key legal considerations, constitutional issues, and emerging developments affecting local governments and the regulated community.
