

Justice Lee Solomon (Ret.) Appointed to New Jersey's Judicial Advisory Panel

Press Releases

09.15.2026

Archer is pleased to announce that Justice Lee A. Solomon (Ret.), Of Counsel in the firm's Business Litigation Group, has been appointed by New Jersey Governor Mikie Sherrill to serve on the state's Judicial Advisory Panel.

The panel assists the Governor in evaluating candidates for appointment to the New Jersey Superior Court and Supreme Court. Governor Sherrill recently signed an executive order continuing the panel and expanding its membership to eight, at least five of whom must be former judges.

Justice Solomon brings a distinguished record of judicial, legal, governmental, and public-service experience to the panel. He served for a decade as an Associate Justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, from June 2014 until August 2024. His body of work on the Court spanned a broad range of matters, including civil litigation, environmental law, equity, family law, and criminal law. Before joining the Court, he served as a Superior Court judge, Camden County Prosecutor, Deputy U.S. Attorney, President of the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities, and a member of the New Jersey General Assembly.

Justice Solomon's contributions to the legal profession and public service have also earned wider recognition. In 2025, the New Jersey State Bar Foundation awarded him its Medal of Honor, the Foundation's highest honor, which recognizes significant contributions to the advancement of the justice system or the betterment of the legal profession in New Jersey.
