

Real Estate Development & Management

Overview

Archer's interdisciplinary team handles all aspects of complex real estate transactions. Our attorneys work closely with corporate owners, investors, and developers to gain a thorough understanding of their real estate goals, both legal and financial. Through a rigorous assessment of the project, we devise solutions for all aspects of commercial property matters. Our experience is a combination of our understanding of the marketplace and the rapidly evolving regulatory challenges, plus our commercially-minded approach. We are involved in all aspects of planning, negotiating and executing real estate projects supported by integrated access to related practice area experience within the firm, including construction, environmental, regulatory compliance, litigation and tax advice.

If things go sideways, as they sometimes do in complicated matters, our attorneys offer a guiding hand in resolving real estate and construction disputes and assist in contracting, risk identification and evaluation, risk avoidance, and pre-litigation strategies. And if worse comes to worse, we lead clients through every step of the litigation process, whether in mediation, arbitration or in a courtroom, to ensure the most optimal outcome.
