Overview

Trevor is a seasoned litigator focused on complex commercial and civil litigation. He advises companies, c-suite executives, and high-net-worth individuals across a broad array of industries throughout the United States, including financial services matters involving, among others, shareholder and partnership disputes, breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty and other business torts, real estate, construction, education, sports, insurance, telecommunications, labor and employment, products liability, automotive, healthcare, civil rights, and religious institutions.

In the area of construction law, Trevor represents clients in litigation, ADR, and transactional matters involving commercial, governmental and residential projects, including transportation and infrastructure projects, office buildings, shopping malls, convention centers and schools. He regularly counsels clients with respect to issues concerning New York Labor Law 200, 240 and 241(6), contract administration, delay claims, structural failures, construction defects, mechanic's liens and design errors and omissions.

Trevor is a creative problem-solver, unflinching advocate for his clients and strategic consultant who focuses on limiting client exposure, while offering efficient, cost-effective and pragmatic solutions to resolve complex matters.
