

Disciplining and Discharging - The Right Way (Flemington Office)

Press Releases

06.15.2007

As employees become more sophisticated about their workplace rights, companies find it increasingly difficult to control their workforce without risking a possible lawsuit. On Friday, June 15, John Quirke will explore the legal basis for workplace claims and describes how companies can take legitimate, proactive steps to enforce policies and promote appropriate employee conduct--all while avoiding mistakes that lead to lost productivity and costly legal claims.

Topics:

Hiring: How to reduce the risks of a lawsuit when hiring an employee:

- Screening Methods
- Offers of employment
- Discrimination law
- Necessary hiring documentation

Firing: How to reduce the risk of a lawsuit when discharging an employee.

- Discipline and discharge
- Specific grounds for discipline and discharge
- Reduction In Force (RIF) guidelines
- Termination meeting
- Necessary procedures upon discharge

PLEASE NOTE: The location of the seminar has been moved from Archer's Flemington Office to the Hampton Inn Flemington. The Hampton Inn Flemington is located at 14 Royal Road, Flemington, NJ 08822.
