William P. Isele, an attorney with the law firm of Archer, P.C., has been appointed to serve as a Trustee of the Middlesex County Bar Foundation.

Isele, of Milltown, was sworn in along with other officers and trustees during the Foundation's annual installation and awards dinner on May 7, 2008, at the New Jersey Law Center in New Brunswick. The Middlesex County Bar Foundation (MCBF) is a non-profit corporation organized for the benefit of the Middlesex County Bar Association and to serve charitable, scientific, literary and educational purposes related to the profession of law and the administration of justice.

Isele, Of Counsel in Archer's Princeton office, served as New Jersey's Ombudsman for the Institutionalized Elderly from October 1999 to October 2007, under five governors. He has served as an officer of the National Association of State Ombudsman Programs. Isele provides advice and representation to a wide range of health care entities, from individual practitioners to hospitals, long-term care facilities, and hospice providers. He also represents individuals and families faced with the difficult tasks related to long-term care planning and obtaining compassionate and competent end-of-life care.

Archer, P.C., is a full-service law firm with more than 150 lawyers in six offices serving Fortune 100 clients, small to medium-sized businesses and individuals for more than 75 years. The firm's principal office is in Haddonfield, N.J., with offices in Princeton and Flemington, N.J., Philadelphia, Pa., Wilmington, Del., and New York, N.Y.
