June 6, 2008

Two attorneys with the law firm of Archer, P.C., will help lead a continuing education seminar on Insurance Coverage Litigation, presented by the National Business Institute (NBI).

The basic-to-intermediate level seminar provides a practical introduction to the process and strategies of insurance coverage dispute litigation. The full-day program is scheduled for Aug. 20, 2008, at the Doubletree Guest Suites, 515 Fellowship Road, Mount Laurel, N.J. It is designed to benefit attorneys (including in-house counsel), claims managers, property managers and company presidents and vice presidents. Attendees will gain the benefit of years of experience in one day, as seasoned faculty share their hard-earned practical tips for litigating the insurance claim from the plaintiff and defense perspectives.

The seminar will feature Ellis I. Medoway and Trevor J. Cooney, both attorneys in the Haddonfield office of Archer. Medoway and Cooney, both Cherry Hill residents, will present workshops on "Interpreting Coverage Under the Insurance Contract," "Bad Faith Litigation," and "Common Ethical Issues and How to Respond."
