

Labor & Employment Law Update: Archer Hosts Wage-and-Hour Law Seminar

Press Releases

06.06.2011

The law firm of Archer P.C. will host a seminar on Thursday, June 23, 2011, on employer wage-and-hour law compliance, featuring Pennsylvania State Representative John J. Taylor, Of Counsel to the Firm.

The free seminar takes place at the Torresdale Frankford Country Club, 3801 Grant Avenue, Philadelphia, beginning at 8 a.m., and includes complimentary breakfast.

The session features Rep. Taylor, of Philadelphia, and other experienced labor and employment attorneys from Archer. It will focus on common wage payment mistakes and the best ways for employers to eliminate them.

Few workplace laws are more misunderstood than the federal and state wage and hour laws. As employees become more sophisticated about their workplace rights, the misunderstandings can result in huge verdicts against employers. Government audits only add to the problems faced by companies large and small.

The course will cover major state and federal laws affecting employee compensation. Issues addressed will include designation of employees as exempt or non-exempt, timekeeping requirements, recordkeeping obligations, and the appropriate designation of independent contractors.

Topics:

- What independent contractors are - and aren't.
- What you have to pay for and what you don't.
- Exemptions - Who qualifies?
- Interaction between state and federal wage laws.
- Most common wage violations and how you can avoid them.
- How to survive a wage audit.
- Recordkeeping obligations.

Speakers:

John J. Taylor, Of Counsel, Archer, PC

Patrick Doran, Partner, Archer, PC

Richard Morris, Partner, Archer, PC
