

Carlton Johnson Receives Diversity Award from Temple Law Students Group

Press Releases

06.29.2012

Carlton L. Johnson, a Partner with Archer P.C. in Philadelphia, has received an honorary award width= from the Black Law Students Association (BLSA) at Temple University Beasley School of Law in recognition of his commitment to diversity in the legal profession and to the Association.

The Temple BLSA Diversity Award honors and recognizes those who have assisted the Association with its diversity initiative. Temple BLSA has made increasing minority participation in the legal profession a strong component of its mission, along with enhancing the quality and perspective of the minority Bar, and establishing relationships with surrounding community organizations.

Mr. Johnson, a Temple Law alumnus, met with BLSA leaders and members, stressed the importance of increased diversity in the profession, and provided encouragement and advice on how the Association could help achieve that objective, said Joel Clymer, Immediate Past President of BLSA. With Mr. Johnson's help, BLSA has launched a diversity speaker series and a diversity outreach reception, and reinvigorated its alumni mentorship program, said Mr. Clymer, a 2012 summer associate at Archer and a recipient of the firm's Temple Law Diversity Scholarship.

Mr. Johnson serves as Co-Chair of Archer's Civil Rights and Government Relations practice groups. A Philadelphia resident and former head of the Civil Rights Unit of the City of Philadelphia Law Department, Mr. Johnson concentrates his practice in civil rights law, government relations and employment law.
