Carlton L. Johnson, a Partner with Archer P.C. in Philadelphia, has been awarded the Temple Law Alumni Association (TLAA) Service Award for exemplary service to the Association.

"Carlton's work embodies his dedication to TLAA, the Law School, and the students," said Sheryl L. Axelrod, Esquire, TLAA President.

Mr. Johnson and fellow honorees will receive their awards at a ceremony on June 10, 2013 at Philadelphia City Hall. A graduate of the Temple University Beasley School of Law, Mr. Johnson played a key role in bringing to fruition the Archer-Temple Law School-City of Philadelphia Diversity Scholarship Program. The program, the first of its kind in Philadelphia, provides each of two diverse Temple Law School students with a $7,500 scholarship in addition to an opportunity to work as a paid summer associate at Archer and at the City Law Department.

In addition, Mr. Johnson meets regularly with members of the Temple Law Black Law Students Association (BLSA) to provide mentorship and guidance, including tips on interviewing and résumé writing, and to help organize major BLSA events. Mr. Johnson has also helped recruit talented new TLAA members, and has strengthened relationships between TLAA, Philadelphia city government, and the greater community.

Mr. Johnson serves as Co-Chair of Archer's Civil Rights and Government Affairs practice groups. A Philadelphia resident and former head of the Civil Rights Unit of the City of Philadelphia Law Department, Mr. Johnson concentrates his practice in civil rights law, government relations and employment law.
