Bill Caruso, Partner and Chair of Archer’s Cannabis practice group, was recently featured in the NJ.com article, “21 People and Places To Watch in the N.J. Cannabis Space in 2021”, published January 17, 2021 by Susan K. Livio, Amanda Hoover, and Enrique Lavin.

“New Jersey’s legal marijuana industry is in its embryonic stage. There is still no law on the books, and the government body charged with regulating the industry is not yet created. But there are many entrepreneurs, social justice advocates, attorneys and other professionals who are eager to help shape the mighty market that everyone expects will grow in the Garden State.

NJ Cannabis Insider developed this list of people and companies to watch as this process unfolds. We include companies with plans to expand the number of medical marijuana retail sites because they will be the first to sell to the adult-use market and the market has been stifled so long.

We also include people who wield influence in Trenton because so much work remains to be done at the legal and policy level. The list is not ranked; entries are presented in alphabetical order.

5. Bill Caruso, attorney and managing affairs director for Archer Public Affairs is also a founding member of New Jersey United for Marijuana Reform. The former executive director of the Assembly Majority Office continues to advise lawmakers drafting the legalization bill.”
