

Webinar- Discrimination Law for Inmates: Brown v. State of New Jersey Department of Corrections and Beyond

Speaking Engagements & Seminars

09.20.2018

Location: n/a

When: September 20, 2018 | 12pm-1:40pm

Where: Webinar

Overview: The July 6, 2018 landmark decision in Brown v. State of New Jersey Department of Corrections held that prisons are public accommodations and are governed by the Law Against Discrimination (LAD).

The Edna Mahan Correction Facility for Women is the prison involved in the Brown case. This is the only female prison in New Jersey. The July 6th ruling paves the way for a class action discrimination and sexual harassment lawsuit against the correctional facility. The class action is sure to receive much attention as it will be in the forefront of protecting women at risk in sexually abusive environments.

For more information and to register, click HERE.