

Archer's Summer Associate Class 2023

Press Releases

06.07.2023

Archer is pleased to welcome the Summer Associate Class 2023:

Patrick Adjei Afriyie is a rising third-year student attending Temple University Beasley School of Law. Patrick is a Law & Public Policy Scholar, and the recipient of a Conwell Scholarship and Langel Scholarship. His law school activities include the Temple National Trial Team and Black Law Students Association, for which he served as Vice President. Patrick also served as a Policy Legal Intern for the Sandy Hook Promise, where he directly assisted in nationwide Gun Reform policy and legislation on Municipal, State, and Federal Levels. Prior to this, Patrick was an NFL and CFL professional football player, serving as defensive lineman for both the Los Angeles Chargers and Ottawa RedBlacks. Patrick earned his Bachelor of Arts in Psychology from Colgate University.

Loris Dennis is a rising third-year student attending Rutgers Law School-Camden. Loris is a Social Justice Scholar and the recipient of a Dean's Merit Scholarship. Her law school activities include Rutgers Law School Journal of Law and Religion, Association for Public Interest Law, Minority Student Program, Law Admissions Team, and she is a Hunter Moot Court Member. Loris served as an intern for the Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights in Philadelphia, where she participated in all phases of case processing. She was a legal intern for Judge Tiffany Palmer in Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, Family Court Division. She is also an alumna at Teach for America, The Henderson Inclusion School in Boston. Loris is also an accomplished singer. Loris earned her Master of Education from Boston University and her Bachelor of Science in Psychology from Denison University.

Najma Hassan is a rising second-year student attending Seton Hall University School of Law. Najma is a Legal Education Opportunity (LEO) Fellow. Najma was a Continuing Legal Education Senior Program Coordinator with the New York Bar Association, where she coordinated CLE program preparation sessions. Prior to that, she was a membership intern for the American Society for Public Administration in Washington, DC, as well as served as a congressional intern for the office of Congressman Donald M. Payne, Jr. in Newark, NJ. She is fluent in Farsi. Najma earned her Bachelors of Arts, magna cum laude, in Public and Nonprofit Administration from Rutgers University-Newark.

Colin P. McHugh is a rising third-year student attending Rutgers Law School-Camden. In law school, Colin served as Staff Editor of Rutgers University Law Review (2022). He also played on the 1L softball team. Colin served as an intern for SAP America, Inc. in Customer Engagement and Management, where he assisted in management of products and services for customer accounts in the Middle East, Eastern Europe, and North Africa. Colin was a seven-time Second Team All-Ivy League in swimming during his undergraduate schooling. Colin earned his Bachelor of Arts in Politics, Philosophy, and Economics from the University of Pennsylvania.

India Patel is a rising second-year student attending Rutgers Law School-Camden, where she is a member of the Minority Student Program. India will also be a Philadelphia Diversity Law Group Fellow. India earned her Bachelors of Science in Business Administration from the University of Louisville.

Maura Quinn is a rising third-year student attending Seton Hall University School of Law. Maura is a Distinguished Scholar and her law school activities consist of Associate Editor for Seton Hall Law Review, member of the Lambda Law Society, and Riccio Moot Court Competition Spring 2022. Maura served as a Judicial Extern for the Honorable Thomas M. Moore, Superior Court of New Jersey, Essex County, Civil Division. Maura earned her Bachelor of Arts in German and Economics from Georgetown University.

Jiyoung Won is a rising third-year student attending Seton Hall University School of Law. Jiyoung is a recipient of a Chancellor Scholarship. Her law school activities include Associate Editor of The Seton Hall Law Review, Asian-Pacific American Law Students Association, Corporate Law Society, Intellectual Property Law Association, Korean American Lawyers Association of New York, and the Asian Pacific American Lawyers Association of New Jersey. Jiyoung served as a law clerk for Wintrust Life Finance. She is fluent in Korean. Jiyoung earned both her Master of Arts in Strategic Communication and her Bachelor of Journalism, summa cum laude, from the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

