Bankruptcy/Restructuring Attorneys Also Recognized

Chambers and Partners, publisher of leading guides to the legal profession worldwide, has once again ranked Archer's Environmental Practice Group and several of the firm's attorneys among the best in their fields in Chambers USA 2023 – America's Leading Lawyers for Business.

Based on extensive research, including interviews with lawyers and their clients, Chambers identifies and ranks the world's lawyers: those who perform best according to the criteria most valued by clients – such as technical expertise, business acumen, prompt delivery and value. Chambers ranks Archer's Environmental Practice among the very best in New Jersey, listing the firm in "Band 1" – the highest level – in that area of law. The guide notes the Environmental Group is a market-leading practice, extremely well regarded for its exceptional litigation expertise. The team is known for its marked capabilities in both state enforcement actions and claims brought by private parties. Key areas of expertise include environmental insurance coverage, Superfund, Spill Fund and Industrial Site Recovery Act (ISRA) matters. Frequently acts for clients from the petroleum industry, and is noted for its expertise in perfluorinated chemicals matters.

In addition, Chambers recognizes and highly ranks the following Archer environmental attorneys, noting this about the group:

Christopher R. Gibson (Band 1), President of Archer and chair of the firm's Litigation Department, is well regarded for his extensive experience in environmental litigation, including defending New Jersey corporations against natural resource damages claims. "He is an impressive litigator who is held in the highest regard," with others also adding that "he is a leader in the field" and "outstanding in every way."

Marc A. Rollo (Band 2) heads Archer's Environmental Practice Group and is a litigator with expertise in cases concerning water contamination allegations and remediation matters affecting the petroleum industry. He is praised by Chambers interviewees as "a strategist, who has very good instincts and a tremendously well-earned reputation," adding "Marc knows the nuances of the law. He can really bring a pragmatic approach to things, together with superior knowledge."

David Edelstein (Band 3) is known for his experience involving Superfund, remediation and natural resource damages disputes. He draws particular praise for his writing skills and is also singled out by one peer who comments, "He is very strong in depositions."

Deborah S. Rosen (Band 4) is a distinguished environmental law attorney whose practice is frequently engaged in litigation at federal and state court. She is praised by a Chambers interviewee, who said, "Deborah is very well respected and is someone who understands the workings of how things happen in New Jersey."

Chambers also recognizes the following Archer attorneys in their bankruptcy/restructuring category:

Stephen M. Packman (Band 3, Pennsylvania: Philadelphia) is the chair of Archer's Bankruptcy, Restructuring and Insolvency Litigation Group and handles a broad caseload that includes both insolvency and litigation matters on behalf of distressed companies and other parties.

David Carickhoff (Band 4, Delaware) is experienced in a range of proceedings, including Chapter 7 and Chapter 11 filings. His clients include creditors' committees and distressed companies in a range of sectors, including the energy and technology markets.
